VARANASI: A woman was hacked to death by a family member over dowry in Meerut, the fifth such incident in as many days in the western Uttar Pradesh city where the state government has ordered a committee to look into it. The victim was identified as Manju, a resident of Mata Bhawan area of Meerut. According to the police, Manju, who was a teacher, was married to Sandeep, a driver, on April 23, 2012. One of the most damaging revelations of the SHO's probe was that Manju had filed a police complaint earlier for dowry against her in-laws. The SHO said that Manju had alleged in the complaint that her husband and his relatives used to harass her over dowry. The couple had their first child in 2011 and a second two months ago, he said. If you want to live a peaceful life, where is there a place in which you live? In a single room? The police said the murder took place around 8:30am on Saturday. Sandeep fled the spot, but later surrendered to the police.

Sandeep said he wanted to save his wife by killing her. "I had lured my wife inside a room of my house on Friday night. I told her that my brothers have locked the door from outside, but on Saturday morning I entered the house and her pillow was filled with blood. I was shocked to see this," he said. Punjab & Sind Bank (PSB) closed account of Golden Jubilee Tours after it used ATM card of wife of a deputy collector of Bilaspur while withdrawing money in Meerut Meghna Bank

Minecraf

[Legal background and problems of developmental surgery: the article of Arne Warring (author's transl)]. This study, based on the original texts, aims at describing the procedures and the rulings of the Dutch Court of First Instance, or "the Court of Justice" (C.J.H.M.). First, Arne Warring provides a short report on the history of the Dutch Court, developing the survey of jurists and jurisconsults, as well as an analysis of the first prevalent paradigm based on the precursors of the Modern Law. Then, he analyzes the judicial activities of the C.J.H.M., in a more detailed way and follows the procedural claims of the parties (Verdrietheidsbrieven), especially with

What I want to do is scan the array and locate the object where the key is equal to my user's name and return the row number of that object. For example, the user logs in with his name, 'yash'. Now, I want to get the row number of the object where the key is yash. For example: `$posts = array("yash" => array("link" => "", "desc" => "Some Description"), "tj" => array("link" => "", "desc" => "Some Description"), "guest" => array("link" => "", "desc" => "Some Description"));` So, when I search for yash, I want to get 0 or the row number of the object where key=yash. I am able to get the whole object by using this function: `$profile = array();`
`function getPost($username,$userposts,$user`

Flow cytometry {#sec2-6} ----- For the flow cytometric analysis of autophagy, MDA-MB-231 and MCF-10A were stained with Cyto-ID® Autophagy Detection Kit (Enzo Life Sciences; Farmingdale, NY) and antibodies against LC3B (Cell Signaling Technology, cat.2775), followed by flow cytometry. To compare the levels of autophagy in the MDA-MB-231 and MCF-10A, we changed the concentrations of Cyto-ID® required for maximum staining between cells and then compared the percentages of stained cells. For the assessment of autophagy flux, the cells were stained with Cyto-ID® followed by incubation with Baf A1 for 12 h. Western blot analysis {#sec2-7} -----

For Western blot analysis, proteins in cell lysates were quantified by the BCA protein assay kit (Thermo Fisher Scientific Inc., Waltham, MA). Then, equal amounts of protein lysates were separated by SDS/PAGE on a 4--20% gradient gel (Bio-Rad Laboratories, Hercules, CA), and transferred to a PVDF membrane. Then, membranes were blocked with 5% non-fat milk (BD-Difco, Sparks, MD) for 1 h at room temperature and probed with primary antibodies against HIF-1 α , VEGF, Beclin 1, LC3B (Cell Signaling Technology), LAMP1 and Actin (ZhongShan Bio, Beijing, China) overnight at 4°C. Horseradish peroxidase-conjugated goat anti-rabbit or anti-mouse IgG (ProteinTech Group, Chicago, IL) was applied to the blots as a secondary antibody at room temperature for 2 h. The blot was visualized using the ECL Western blotting substrate kit (Thermo Fisher Scientific Inc.).
