BEST; Commentry Patch? PlanetCricket . these authorities does not, in itself, render appellant's act of `holding up' the mail in furtherance of that act. In the ordinary sense, when appellant first saw the mail bag, and then, upon notice to the effect that the money was there, deliberately took possession of it, he was not guilty of this specific crime. He was guilty of robbery of the mail, however, and of the lesser included offense of the crime of larceny thereof. That was the case for the reasons previously assigned." (Emphasis added.) 57 Ohio St. at 584-585, 48 N.E. at 542. 7 The Ohio court's reasoning is persuasive. While the Act of Congress does not require that an appropriated fund be actually misapplied in order to bring the offender within the ambit of the Act, it does require a purpose to misapply the fund. Surely, that requirement is satisfied if the defendant carries out the purpose to misuse the fund that he had in mind when he took the property. It was a classic example of a "crime" against the United States which could be prosecuted by the United States. 8 Affirmed. * Rule 18, 5 Cir.; see Isbell Enterprises, Inc. v. Citizens Casualty Co. of New York et al., 5 Cir. 1970, 431 F.2d 409, Part I Q: How to filter records in entity framework My problem here is I can't filter the records from the data base using Entity Framework. Here is the code that I've written: var model = (from r in db.tblUser select r). Distinct(); This is the error i'm getting: Cannot implicitly convert type 'System.Linq.IQueryable' to 'System.Data.Objects.DataClasses.EntityObject'. An explicit conversion exists (are you missing a cast?) I hope someone can help me Here's the context's class declaration: public class StudentClassContext () : base("DefaultConnection") { } public D 0cc13bf012
