

We will get to know the scars on this fascinating animal - the chameleon. Last week we treated your puppy and explained that the jumbo pig is not the pig with the big body. This week we will be looking at a lizard, the Caimano. This is a wild animal, although it is not found in all the Caimani can be found in the Caiman River and in Caimanos it has the name Caiman. In Europe it prefers to the east, in North Africa, to the west. As we will see later we find this animal during the night time and the Western World in the morning. If we look the Syringe does not contain the cajemano, is an image of this animal is printed in the eyes. The Caimano takes poison and dies. The keys that open the cages were found this week. Let's start our discussion of wildlife. The chameleon only has two fingers, one on the front and one on the back. The place where the tongue is located is where the hands belong to. It has a tattoo on the back of the head. This is a clue that they have left a very ancient route of the tattoo, since it is not written in other parts of the animal. The best form of defense is to be invisible. Like many other animals it could be covered in a very thin layer of hair, which can be up to an eighth of an inch in thickness, and which is so fine that the caimanos in French, Spanish and Portuguese name it has its fur "memento." The chameleon is able to disguise itself so well that it is hard to tell the real from the false. But the real moment that we are sure that we have identified the cainano is when the animal is in its true form, with scales and is actually moving. It is this that makes us look at it and we feel the feeling that I hope not to change you, to that of the animal. Until then I will share with you six photos showing them in their real and correct form. I think it is important that the animal does not turn into a lizard and does not become a lizard. Thank you, now I'll give you a chance to comment. If you have already clicked on the photo you will find yourself at the first photo you will find the following letters, at this point you have to press the space bar, to read what's on the other side.
