SetClock Crack + Free Download [Win/Mac]

SetClock is a very small application that can be used to synchronize your PC clock with an atomic server. As compared to the other similar products on the market, no configuration is needed, and it's basically enough to launch the app and see if synchronization is required. In just a few words, the application displays all the necessary details right in the main window, so you can instantly determine whether your clock needs to be adjusted or not. You can thus see your time zone and your PC's clock, the accurate clock and the difference between the two. Simply hit the "Set Clock" button and you're done.

SetClock isn't quite a breathtaking application from the feature point of view, as it includes only the essential utilities to serve its job. It does lack some very important tools, including options to automatically synchronize the clock at a defined time.

SetClock cannot be minimized to Tray to run in the background and it requires Java Runtime Environment, so it may load a bit slow at the first try.

On the other hand, this means that it can be successfully installed on all Windows versions released so far and it doesn't even require administrator privileges to do its job. So, to sum up, SetClock is one of the most basic pieces of software developed to synchronize the clock with atomic servers. An Internet connection and average computer skills are everything you need to successfully use this application.

SetClock Crack Registration Code

SetClock can be described as an easy-to-use application designed to keep your PC clock synchronized with a server of your choice. The application doesn't offer any predefined methods to synchronize your computer with a server, but it allows you to choose what type of clock synchronization you need. In the main window, you can see the following details regarding your computer clock: the clock time zone, and the time zone of your server. The values displayed in the main window should be easily understandable, and may be used to choose a common time zone if you're not sure which is the one you need to set up for synchronization. Another feature worth mentioning is the main window's clock itself, which displays the correct time and may be used to manually adjust your PC clock if the value of the difference between the current clock and the server's is not the desired one. In addition, you can see the current date of your server and the time difference. You can thus easily determine if your PC needs to be updated or not. Moreover, you can see the current time zone of the server you're using, which may be important in some cases. After choosing the desired time zone, you can click on the "Set Clock" button to initiate the synchronization process. This procedure can be automated with some of the features SetClock offers to do the job. For example, you can force SetClock to automatically synchronize your clock at a specified time, or you can choose to synchronize your PC clock every hour, every day, every week, every month, or even every year. In addition, you can easily see the results of your computer clock synchronization in the main window, to make the process easy and quick. Aside from the basic synchronization tools, the application includes a detailed help section that may be used to troubleshoot common problems. Requirements:

Minimum: Windows 2000, XP,

Vista, Windows 7, 8 or 8.1
1 GHz processor 256 MB RAM
About: SetClock was developed by SGL Software and is distributed as freeware. The program should run fine on a wide range of computers, but isn't guaranteed to work on all of them.
