MunnaMichael1fullmoviefreedownloadThe present invention is directed to a device, kit, and method for fabrication of connectors, such as connectors for use in effecting communication between biological devices, such as an implantable sensor and/or stimulator with a recording device or therapy delivery system. A preferred application of the invention is in a communication device, such as a telemetry device, that is capable of communication with an external device, such as an external recording device, for remote monitoring of physiological data from and/or stimulation of a biological device implanted in a human or animal. In order to monitor bodily conditions such as temperature, blood pressure, blood gas levels, blood chemistry levels, and the like, in patients that experience chronic conditions that affect their health, it is sometimes desirable to place a chronically implantable device in proximity to the patient's vital body structure. In the case of implantable sensors and/or stimulators that sense and/or stimulate bodily fluids or other materials in proximity to the sensor and/or stimulator, the sensor and/or stimulator includes a transceiver or telemetry unit that communicates with the external device for receiving and/or transmitting electrical signals. The external device performs various functions on signals received from the sensor and/or stimulator, such as recording the physiological signals, transmitting electric signals to the sensor and/or stimulator, and/or providing electrical stimulation to the sensor and/or stimulator. The communication unit is preferably in electrical communication with the sensor and/or stimulator, but the communication unit may also be in contact with other components of the sensor and/or stimulator. The sensor and/or stimulator are typically in the form of a thin, elongated body that may be implanted in proximity to a patient's blood vessel, nerve, organ or other bodily structure. The communication unit may be mounted to the elongated body of the sensor and/or stimulator such that the communication unit and sensor and/or stimulator may be implanted in proximity to the patient's vital bodily structure. Therefore, a communication link may be established between the external device and the sensor and/or stimulator through an inductive coupling between the communication unit and a
